
CYPRIPEDIUM SPICERIANUM.

THIS species, which was exhibited before the Floral Committee on October 18, is one of the smaller flowered species, noted at the time of exhibition as having the upper sepal white with a central purple line, lateral sepals greenish, also with a central line, the lip greenish shining, and the top of the column white spotted with violet,